Notes

The Coronet 2900 is a Tiara's entry-level model and she's affordable and feature packed. As a multi-purpose boat the 2900 is great for fishing or just entertaining, thanks to her 114-square foot cockpit. As far as performance is concerned she hops onto plane quickly with minimal bowrise and demonstrated a smooth ride with good lateral stability at speed and at rest.

As far as amenities are concerned, the Coronet's cockpit is not exactly tournament-ready, but it does boast 54-square feet of space. Bigger-boat touches include stainless steel hawsepipes for the stern lines, and the standard cockpit bolster pads are at mid-thigh height for security when gaffing fish. The bridge deck has a raised L-shaped lounge to port with a smartly designed table/chart stowage area forward, and a helm seat and console refreshment to starboard. The console has a cold water sinks, a large icebox manufacturer and a second smaller one. The 2900 sleeps two in a forward V-berth and has an enclosed head with sink. The galley is a basic with cold water and sink-single-burner stove.
